DEUTSCHE LUFTHANSA AG (GERMANY, FED. REP.)

Company Website: www.lufthansa.com

History: Incorporated in Germany on Jan. 6, 1953 as Aktiengesellschaft fuer Luftverkehrsbedarf. Co. began its operations in Apr. 1955, after the Allies lifted the prohibition for German commercial flights imposed after the war.

In 1989, Co., through Lufthansa Hotelgesellschaft, acquired a further 20% interest in Kempinski Hotels S.A., increasing its holding to 40%.

In 1989, Co. founded Lufthansa Design Center GmbH, LUPEG Luftverkehrs-Personalgesellschaft mbH, and Lufthansa Air-Plus Servicekarten GmbH.

In Aug. 1989, Co. became the majority shareholder of DLT Deutsche Luftverkehrsgesellschaft mbH, a regional German airline, with a 52% holding.

In 1990, Co. made an initial 5% stake in DHL International Ltd., Hong Kong.

In 1992, Co. decreased its interest in Kempinsky Hotel AG to about 20%.

At the beginning of 1993, Co. introduced its frequent flyer program "Miles & More" on the German market. Every mile flown is credited to an incentive account which entitles customers to special rewards.

In 1993, Co. added the following cities to its service routes: Katowice, Poland; Tashkent, Uzbekistan; Ekaterinburg in the Urals; Novosibirsk, Siberia; Taipei; and Sharjah, United Arab Emirates.

In 1993, Ramada took over a total of 49% of the shares in the Penta group. Lufthansa Hotel-Gesellschaft (LHG) remains the majority shareholder with 51% but transferred operational responsibility for the group to Ramada. The Penta Hotel chain is now being operated predominantly as Ramada Hotels or Ramada Renaissance Hotels.

At the end of 1993, Co.'s Lufthansa City Center Reisebuero Partner GmbH was founded as part of a marketing strategy.

In Mar. 1993, German Cargo Services GmbH was renamed Lufthansa Cargo Airlines GmbH (LCA). Since then, LCA has been operating all the Lufthansa Group's freight-only aircraft.

In Dec. 1993, Co.'s LSG Group acquired a 25% stake in the American air catering concern Sky Chefs making it the world's largest air caterer.

At the beginning of 1994, LCA's technical division was turned into an independent business unit. The division was spun off under the name, Condor/Cargo Technik GmbH to form an autonomous entity in which LCA holds a 30% share.

In 1994, Lufthansa City Center Reisebuero Partner GmbH will commence business operations to gain medium-sized travel agencies for Co.

In Oct. 1994, Co. began to privatize which resulted in the German Government reducing its stake to 36%, whereas it had previously held a majority. In 1994, Co.'s Condor subsidiary acquired a 25% shareholding in Alpha Holding GmbH Frankfurt which is a specialist tour operator. In 1994, Lufthansa Partner Tours GmbH was founded in which Co. has a 50% interest. Lufthansa Hotel Gesellschaft was fused with Lufthansa Commercial Holding (LCH) as part of the realignment of Co.'s hotel interests and the involvement in Kempinski AG was sold in full. Further in Jan. 1995, Lufthansa Technik AG, Lufthansa Cargo AG (the spun-off cargo division) and Lufthansa Systems GmbH became legally autonomous and economically independent companies and will remain integrated into the Group. During year ended Dec. 31, 1995, Co. acquired an additional 8.4% of the shares in Deutsche Reisebuero GmbH and a stake of 51% in both Lufthansa Gebaudemanagement GmbH and Lufthansa LOEWE Druck and Distribution GmbH. In addition, Co. took a 30% interest in Jugenkarte, Euro 26' Vermarktungs- und Vertriebsgesellschaft mbH and a 10% holding in Arena Management GmbH. Its equity investment in AMADEUS Data Processing GmbH & Co. Beteiligungs-KG was increased by 4.1%. In Nov. 1996, the EU Commission in Brussels rules that proposals made by the German transport minister Wissmann conform to EU regulations, thus opening the way for the last leg of Co.'s privatization. These proposals culminate in a draft Aviation Compliance Documenting Bill. This bill envisages that in the future the shares of publicly listed German airline companies are to be registered shares. This means that in the future the shareholders' name and nationality will be recorded. The law further provides instruments for reliability maintaining or, if need be, restoring a majority of the stock in German hands. Since Apr. 1, 1997, Co. began running as a private company following the final sale of Co.'s shares for the Government of the Federal Republic of Germany.

During year ended Dec. 31, 1995, Co., through its subsidiary, Lufthansa Commercial Holdings, acquired an additional 8.4% of the shares in Deutsche Reisebuero GmbH and a stake of 51% in both Lufthansa Gebaudemanagement GmbH and Lufthansa LOEWE Druck and Distribution GmbH.
